

Leaves

Leaves are falling as the wind picks up and the light dims. She leaves herself time to prepare a holiday feast, using recipes she knows by heart. Putting extra leaves in the table that is usually set for one, the woman makes sure all will have a seat. The heartfelt work leaves her tired, yet satisfied, as she anticipates the arrival of her cherished guests.

She cries when everyone leaves.